Thirty years after women became 45 percent of the college graduates in the United States, men still hold the vast majority of leadership positions in government and industry. This means that women's voices are still not heard equally in the decisions that most affect our lives.

It covered how women empowerment has been changed because of economic, political reasons...the impact women are making in the business, a case study given in the case of USA, how women entrepreneurship is evolving, and finally given some stories of successful business women.
